The rebel - In the 50's and 60's many young people broke free from the traditional social norms, wanting to release from their parents' generation. They didn't want to follow the old standards, but aimed to express their individuality through music, fashion and cars. New subcultures emerged such as Rock n' Roll and Surfing which let the young people enjoy their freedom and show their personality. This young generation wanted to break free from the society they were born in, they wanted to be different, they wanted to show who they were. Therefore, Malibu is different and expresses your individuality. Malibu is young, rebellious and colourful!

Malibu is inspired by the styles and ideas of the youngsters from the 50's and 60's. Rutger Andersson created a colourful retro design, bringing the feeling of that generation back to the present. The contradiction of modernity and retro design makes the furniture timeless but unique.
